

Our Nature Diary is now available!

The Bulkley Valley Naturalists are pleased to announce the publication of A Bulkley Valley Year, our perpetual nature diary.

A year in the making, the 160-page diary showcases 66 original artworks by 36 local artists and combines their beautiful pictures with long term natural history data collected by club members to provide a chronicle of nature in the Valley as it unfolds throughout the year.

The diary features:

- A 2-page spread per week
- A short informative caption on the topical subject of the week
- A This Week item listing likely natural history events for the particular week based on historical data

- A 2-page introductory essay for each of the four seasons
- Short essays on subjects such as unique local ecosystems
- Extensive appendices, which include a checklist of common local birds, historical bird arrival dates, bird song mnemonics, nest box and roost box designs, Latin names of plants mentioned in the diary, a Bulkley Valley mammal list and easy to use star charts
- Perpetual diary format which allows for the recording of nature observations over several seasons.

Now available at local book stores for $20 ($16 for club members)

We would especially like to thank our sponsors: Stephen Partington, the Smithers Rotary Club, Wetzin'Kwa Community Forest Corporation, BC Nature Foundation, BV Community Foundation and the Bulkley Valley Credit Union. Without their generous support this worthwhile project would not have been possible.
